ISOPE - Bridging the Oceans

The International Society of Offshore and Polar Engineering will celebrate its 15th year of service to the ocean, offshore and Arctic engineering community at the upcoming ISOPE Conference and Exhibition at the COEX Convention & Exhibition Center, Seoul, Korea. Each year ISOPE brings together experts and engineers from industry, governments, and academia to discuss a wide range of issues pertinent to the exploration, development and use of our ocean and Arctic resources. This year we expect participants from 47 countries.

The ISOPE Conference is unique in attracting a diverse group of researchers and practicing engineers to present timely papers on both scientific and design topics. Technical excellence is maintained through peer-review of papers presented at the conference, and the society publishes its own journal, The International Journal of Polar and Offshore Engineering. ISOPE has grown over the past 15 years to become the largest conference of its kind in the world with thousands of members from more than 45 countries. Conference proceedings typically include 420-510 peer-reviewed papers.

ISOPE strives for international participation throughout the world's ocean community. The annual conference venues alternate among North and South America, Europe and the Asia-Pacific region. The Executive and Technical Program Committees reflect the international balance of the ISOPE membership. ISOPE truly has become the premier ocean, offshore and Arctic engineering society bridging the geographical and technological interests of the international ocean and Arctic communities.
